

DaimlerChrysler AG

Abstract

In a method for changing the acceleration mode of a motor vehicle, the driver can change from a normal acceleration mode into a rapid acceleration mode in which the supply of air and fuel is increased. The change into the rapid acceleration mode is carried out if the driver exceeds a pedal-speed threshold value when activating the accelerator pedal.

(Figure 2)